Featured Movie Review

Once. (2007)

He sings and plays guitar on a street in Dublin. His “regular” job is fixing vacuum cleaners. She is a Czech immigrant, doing odd jobs and caring for her mother and young daughter. She is a classically trained pianist and plays any chance that she can get. They have a shared interest in songwriting. In one week’s time, the two meet and record a demo. Their musical styles compliment one another. As the guy and girl work together, their songs mirror what they are experiencing – mending past relationships, taking chances, and falling in love. This sounds like simple stuff, but it is so much more. Glen Hansard and Marketa Irglova star as Guy and Girl (the characters are unnamed in the film). Neither is an actor, but both are gifted musicians in real life. They have a lot of on-screen chemistry and are perfect for the story. They wrote the songs used in the movie, and perform them as well. The emotional payoff comes via the musical performances. This is an extraordinary film.

If you like this movie, try The Commitments and The Boys & Girl from County Clare. Don’t miss the soundtrack Once, and check out the CDs The Swell Season by Glen Hansard and Marketa Irglova and The Cost by The Frames (Hansard’s band).
