Eye On: New Directors

Sofia Coppola — Daughter of acclaimed director Francis Ford Coppola, this young filmmaker is the first American woman to receive an Academy Award nomination for Best Director. She is the third woman ever to be nominated in this category, after Lina Wertmüller (from Italy) and Jane Campion (from New Zealand). Although Coppola did not win an Oscar for directing her breakthrough movie, Lost in Translation, she won for Best Original Screenplay. Coppola often uses pop culture references in her films. Critics are divided on her new biopic, Marie Antoinette.

Marie Antoinette. 2006. PG-13 (available on DVD February, 2007)
Lost in Translation. 2003. R
The Virgin Suicides. 2000. R

Alejandro González Iñárritu – Born in Mexico City, Mexico, Iñárritu studied filmmaking in Maine and Los Angeles. His first feature movie, Amores Perros was nominated for an Academy Award for Best Foreign Film. He won the Best Director Prize at the 2006 Cannes Film Festival for his new movie Babel.

Babel. 2006. R (in theaters)
21 Grams. 2003. R
Amores Perros. 2000. R (in Spanish with English subtitles)
